A Washington despatch of a recent date sats. There was an interesting incident to-day at the meeting of the House Committee on Neval Affairs. A bill was before the committee to provide for the purchase of 200 acres of ground to enlarge the N rfolk Navy Yard It was urged by ex-Solicitor Goode and by the constructor of the Yard and others who were present for the jurpose of favoring the bill Mir Bentelle in quired if the land was worth much as when he saw it last, some fem vear- ago at was not thought to be of any particular value. The reply was given that the land was now regarded as very Mr Boutelle inquired what had made the change. He was informed that within the last two years a village had sprung up adjoining this land and greatly increased its value "What stagted that village ' inquired Mr Boutelle.
'Oh, repited the Constructor of the Navy Yard, "they have started a knitting mill and several other manufacturing establishments there, and that is what has caused the increased value

Mr Bouteile looked quazzically at the chairman of the committee and then remarked amid great laughter -

' That McKinley bill seemed to be making trouble all around, and if that land is not bought promptly, or the McKinley bill repealed, it is going to cost the Government a lot of money to enlarge the Norfolk Navy Yard." The subject was then dropped

The Democratic-Doctors.

Now that the Democratic doctors dissgree as to the dose of tanff reform and just how soon the patient will stand it. there follows as natural consequence an exchange of compliments in which plans speaking is the order. For instance the New York World which lavors a large dose and as soon as possible, is opposed to the commission idea and says:

The extracts we have quoted are sufficient to show the radical different opinion existing already although it is some months yet before the Dec take charge of things at Washington. The fact that they are calling names at this to the polls, and he was a Bishop of the early day will afford some some idea, of what may be expected when they get ROSTON, Dec. 15. The annual banquet of the Beston Marchanis' Association was held at the Vendome this evening. For years these banquets have been the most brilliant gatherings of the kind in the city and the subject of discussion to night, the Consular Service of the United States, made this meeting one of unusual interest and importance. A reception was held in the hotel parlers for an hour before the banquet, at which the members of the seadisation had an opportunity to meet the distinguished guests and appearers. Fromptly at six evolock, President Jonathan A. Lane led the procession to the banquet hell, which was elaborately decorated with flags and other patriotic emblems. Fromment over the guests was the large stuffed engle. Near President Lane were placed the speakers of the evening: Hon. Joseph S. Potter, Ex-Consul to Crefeld, Germany; Hon. Robert R. Hitt, Representative in Congress from Hilanis; Hon. J. L. M. Curry, Ex-Minister to Spain; General C. E. Hooker, Representative in Congress from Mississippi, and Hon. T. After the discussion of an elaborate menu, President Lane called the company to order, and made a brief introductory speech. Letters of regret were read from a number of prominet people. President Lane then introduced Hor. Jos. S. Potter. Mr. Potter spoke of the great power and opportunity of the United States consular service to aid the expansion of American commerce in foreign countries. The consular force should be organized upon a business hasis and marshalled as auxilaries in the work of merchants, manufacturers and artsians in developing the industrial resources of the public.

The second speaker was Hon J. I. M. Curry, ex-Minister to Spain. He paid a glowing tribute to Boston, whose merchants, he said, have been a most potent and beneficent factor in the prosperity of the United States. He spoke of the varied and imperiant duties and responsibilities of consular agents and outlined the requirements they should possess for the most efficient administration of their office.

The other speakers were Congressman next week for a vote to be taken on the bill, but objections were numerous for the bill went over until Monday next. The Senate went into executive session and at 3 40 adjourned till Monday.

BOLD TRAIN BORRES Two Masked Mon Attack a Cronded Car The foliowing are additional particulars of the bold attempt to rob a train in West Virginia, Last Monday night Monday night as the "Fast Flying Virginian" left Huntingdon, about 12 30, quite a number night as the "Fast Flying Virginan" left. Huntingdon, about 13 30, quite a number of passengers got aboard, some from Huntingdon and some from the Newpoit News & Bississippi Line. Among them were two men, one wearing long har, resembling Buffalo Bill in stature and general appearance, except that his moustached and thin whiskers were smaller and lighter in color. His companion was a man of medium size, of dark complexion and also wore a small beard.

The ladies' car which they entered was crowded and they stepped into the ladies toilet room as the conductor passed through the car, one saying to the other "Let the conductor pass." Both wore caps and shortly after the train pulled out from Huntingdon they emerged from the toilet room the larger one raising his cap and letting a mask fall over his face as he stepped through the door. His companion was already masked. The larger man had a revolver in each hand and his companion, who was in the lead, had one. The larger one said to the already terrified passengers; "Hold up Throw up your hands. Be queet. You won't be hurr if you don't move."

All art married and the aged couple have quite a number of grand-children. Yesterday a family gathering was held at Mr. and Mrs. Kerr's home, and at dinner, besides themselves, there were three pf the children and four of the grand-children present. A bountiful repast was served, and the occasion was made a very pleasant one. Letters were read from the absent members of the family, and, a poem, by one of the daughters, Mrs. Sewall Downs, of Chicago, was also read. A pleasant feature of the event was the presentation of Mr. and Mrs. Kerr with a purse of about $50, mostly gold, made up by their children. many wounds on Kuckelhorn's body when it was found indicated that there had been a long struggle after the first blow had been struck. The negro's clothhad been a long struggle after the first blow had been struck. The negro's clothing must have been bloody after the butchery. He stole a silver watch and chain and over $30 from the pocket of the murdered man. He also stole a pair of trousers belonging to one of the workmen in the building, and wore them, it is believed, when he left the building. Some time later he was seen by an acquaintance. He then had a silver watch and chain in his possession, and bore marks of a fight, it is said. The police would not tell who the acquaintance of the negro was.—N. Y. Tribuns.
